Things You Should Know About This Magazine

When you see this Real it means the story is true. It really, really is.

This is Zelda Van Gutters, our roving reporter. You'll see her throughout the issue. Since the dog days of summer usually occur in August, this is her time to shine!

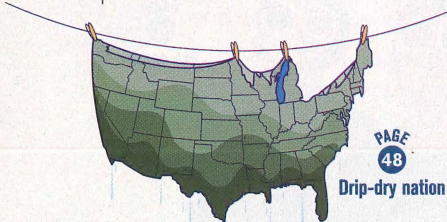

Actually, I prefer to wilt.

We had to put this issue together quickly since we all wanted to spend weekends in our summer houses. Wait. We just realized—we don't have summer houses.

Zig Zag à la Brun

When you're on the dance floor, looking cool is the name of the game. This means no square dancing or polka...ever. To look slick out there, you have to keep it simple: A quick shimmy to the right and a shake to the left, along with a few well-timed finger snaps, and the floor's all yours!

Rosy's Booty Swirl

If you're a disco diva like me, then you'll love this move. It's all about getting noticed. The key is to roll your hips all the way around, then do a little bunny hop. Trust me, do this three times and all eyes will be on you!

The Chiffon Shuffle

I rule the dance floor – and let me tell you, I look smooooth out there. First, I shuffle forward like a train chugging along some railroad tracks (chugging noise optional). When I reach the end of the line, I shake my caboose. Believe me, it's killer!

The Ember Explosion

I'm a hyper guy, yep. So as soon as those beats kick up, I take off like a rocket! First, I jump—I'm talkin' up and down, up and down, up and down! For the finale, I dive to the floor for a quick backspin. Talk about a showstopper!

Get Down

Doin'
The Mini

is the next new dance craze sure to sweep the nation. It's all about havin' fun, being yourself and gettin' down! When it comes to dancing, everyone has their own unique style—just like the M&M'S® MINIS® Characters! So hop off the couch, crank up the tunes, and bust a move! Need some ideas to help you jump-start your own fancy footwork? Try these...

Shimmy'n Shake

1 Trace your foot on a piece of paper four times, cut the footprints out, and number them.

2 Spread out the footprints on the floor around you.

3 Have a friend randomly yell out numbers while you step on the corresponding footprint.

4 Add in new moves like a hop, skip, or a clap along the way until you've created your own version of...

The Mini

Strut Your Stuff

1 Whether you dig disco, hip-hop, salsa, or break dancing, every style can get you movin' and groovin'!

2 Invite your friends over and take turns showing off your most slammin' moves.

3 Combine everyone's hottest steps to create another new version of...

About the May issue

Dear Nick Mag,

The funniest thing happened to me. I taped the HONK IF YOU ARE A GOOSE sticker to the window of my mom's car. We went to get ice cream, and someone honked while we were parked and yelled out "Quack!" It was hilarious. Please put in more things like that.
Shira B., age 13
Hollywood, California

Dear Shira,

We're glad that our signs were all they were quacked up to be.

Dear Nick Mag,

I taped the Moose Mac 'n' Cud wildlife prank label to a soup can, and my uncle actually ate the soup! He said, "Hey, they were right, it does taste better the fifth time around!" Please put more labels in your next issue.
Michael, age 10
via e-mail

Dear Michael,

Don't throw out that label! Sounds like your uncle will enjoy it the sixth time around, too.

Dear Nick Mag,

I am a flat-out animal freak, so I loved the issue, especially how you defended wolves in "Unfair Crittercism." They are my favorite animals.
Rae L., age 12
Riverview, Florida

Dear Rae,

We always defend the underwolf.

Dear Nick Mag,

I really liked the Wildlife Pranks and the Yoda poster. I have the poster and the chimp door-alarm sign on my door. I really wish the Force would clean up my room.
Steven H., age 12
Columbia, Illinois

Dear Steven,

If the Force doesn't clean up your room, you could always train chimps to do it.

Just leave me out of it.

Dear Nick Mag,

I was looking at the All That poster and saw a mistake. The second picture in the third row is Kel Mitchell, not Nick Cannon.
Mikki F., age 13
Cordova, Tennessee

Dear Mikki,

Lots of eagle-eyed readers told us about our mistake. We also mistakenly identified Chelsea Brummet in the first picture of the third row as Lisa Foiles. What can we say? Sometimes we're not All That!

Real

These five stars gave us the scoop on their summer trips.

Jesse McCartney, singer and actor
What is your ideal vacation?

I just bought my own house, and I haven't had much of a chance to settle in and enjoy it. So my dream vacation right now would be some time off to spend at home.

That's better than spending time in the doghouse.

Jennifer Lopez, singer and actress
What is your ideal vacation?

To go to Greece. I've never been there.

Katie Holmes, actress

What would your ideal road trip be like?

[laughs] Twenty minutes. I don't like riding in the car for long periods of time.

Zoë Lister-Jones, actress

What has been your best summer vacation?

I went to summer camp every year from when I was ten until I was around sixteen, and I would do theater. The best was the year I was in The Who's Tommy and I got to sing and dance. I loved it.

Nick Lachey, singer

What has been your best summer vacation?

Jessica and I went whale watching in Cabo San Lucas in Mexico. A humpback whale breached just thirty yards from our boat. It was such a thrill, and that's what made it the best vacation in recent memory.

Keeping It Real

Make your summer more exciting by imagining how even the most boring thing you do could be a hit reality TV program. Here's a possible lineup of shows you could star in:

Evening

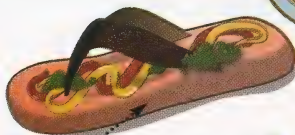

7:00	7:30	8:00	8:30	9:00

The Amazing Race From the Air-Conditioned Car to the Air-Conditioned House		Ice Cream Cone Swap	The Pimple Life

The Chill-Out

Miniature AC blows a cooling breeze at your toes.

Made of 92 percent pure beef and 8 percent impure beef by-product.

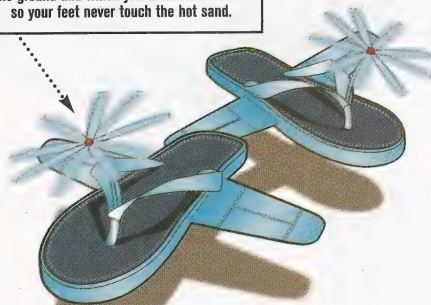

Mustard and ketchup moisturize your foot.

The Sausage

Flipped-Out Flip-Flops

Here are some flip-flops we'd love to see this summer.

Tiny propeller engines lift you four feet off the ground and whisk you around the beach so your feet never touch the hot sand.

The Hover-Flop

Is It Hot Enough for Ya?

If any of the following are true, the answer is probably yes.

by Susan M. Clarke

The fish in your fish tank are ready for a bun and tartar sauce.

You need oven mitts to type on the computer.

You can bake a potato in your armpits.

Your grandmother is not wearing a sweater for once.

The Department of the Interior declares the sweat running down your back the sixth Great Lake.

You burn your tongue simply by sticking it out at your sister.

You're a hot dog.

Stupid Questions to Ask Tour Guides

Sometime this summer, you may be dragged on a tour of some "point of interest." Here are questions you can ask the tour guide to liven things up. (Note: Use at your own risk.)

by David Lewman

Hot Topics

Steven Stern didn't sweat it when we asked him to find the answers to these questions about summer.

Why does heat feel worse when it's humid out?

When you get hot, you begin to sweat. Perspiration is your body's cooling system. The perspiration evaporates into the air, and the heat goes along with it. So you end up feeling cooler. On a humid day, however, the air is already full of moisture and can't absorb any more. So rather than evaporating, the sweat stays on your skin, and you stew in your own juices.

How did people keep cool before air-conditioning?

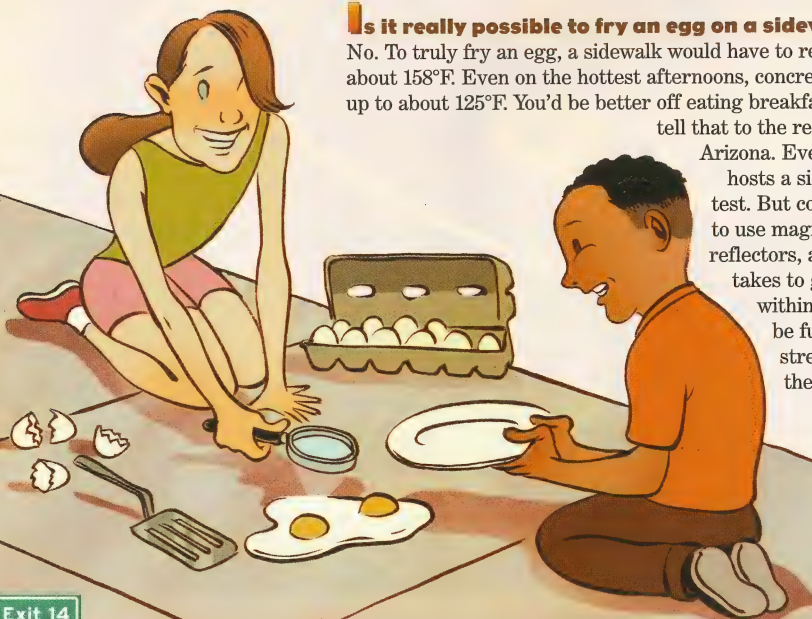

Before air-conditioning was invented (about 100 years ago), the pace of life slowed down in the summer. Businesses closed or changed their hours so they were open only during the coolest parts of the day. Towns and cities emptied out: Everyone who could afford to leave went to summer resorts in the mountains or by the sea. Folks who were stuck at home spent much of their time on shady porches or fire escapes. To create their own breezes, people used handheld fans if they didn't have an electric fan.

Is it really possible to fry an egg on a sidewalk?

No. To truly fry an egg, a sidewalk would have to reach a temperature of about 158°F. Even on the hottest afternoons, concrete pavement only gets up to about 125°F. You'd be better off eating breakfast at home. But don't tell that to the residents of Oatman,

Arizona. Every July 4, the town hosts a sidewalk egg-frying contest. But contestants are allowed to use magnifying glasses, foil reflectors, and whatever else it takes to get their eggs cooked within 15 minutes. It might be fun, but it would be a stretch to call it frying on the sidewalk. □

Um, I asked for scrambled.

Smarty Chants

Car trips can be long and...long.
Chant these cheers to break up the boredom.

by Anne D. Bernstein

Tunnel Chant

There are tunnels that have one lane,
There are tunnels that have two.
Once you're in a tunnel,
You have to go on through.

Tunnels go through mountains,
And some are underground.
One is called the Chunnel,
In Europe it is found.

How long is this tunnel?
Not knowing is our plight.
Let's start counting seconds
Until we see the light.

1...2...3...4...5...

(Keep counting until the tunnel—or your parents' patience—ends.)

Chant of the Lost

We're lost! We're lost!
We don't know where we are.
Should we go left?
Should we go right?
Or turn around the car?

We're lost! We're lost!
We don't know where we're going.
Should we go north?
Should we go south?
Our ignorance is showing.

We're lost! We're lost!
Don't know which way to steer.
There is one thing
We are sure of,
We know that we are here.

Rest Stop Cheer

R-E-S-T! S-T-O-P!
We need a rest...stop!

A rest stop is a place to pee,
Where you can get brochures for free.

Eat a burger and some fries,
Stretch your legs and move your thighs.

Breathe some air, if nauseated.
Dad needs coffee, percolated.

Withdraw money from your bank,
Check the oil, fill your tank.

Get a sticker for your bumper,
Throw your trash into the dumper.

You may want to buy a map,
Or let the driver take a nap.

And if you can force a tear,
Beg for one cheap souvenir.

It's a rest...stop!

*If you don't let the dog out to pee,
You'll scrub the car on bended knee.*

State Line Cheer

_____ is where we've been,
state you are leaving _____ we'll soon be in.
state you are entering _____

Cross the border, start anew.
Let's just hope the tolls are few.

Shout "Hooray!"—it is our fate

Shore Things

If you've ever wanted to build something more than a sand castle on the beach but thought it was too hard, think again. Anne D. Bernstein figured out easy ways to make some spectacular sand sculptures.

What you'll need:

- Beach buckets (assorted sizes)
- Plastic shovels
- One small plastic drinking cup
- Assorted seashells, pebbles, and sticks

You may also want to add accessories such as flip-flops, dolls, a hat, or funny glasses to some of the sculptures.

Real

Nose

- Start with a large overturned bucket of fairly wet sand. Add two small overturned buckets of sand in the area where the nostrils will be. Mold the wet sand into a nose shape and use your hands to carefully dig out the nostrils.

- Add seaweed if you'd like a runny nose.

Octo-Dude

- Draw a circular outline of the central part of the creature's body. Then build up a large mound of firmly packed wet sand. Make sure the mound is big enough for eight overturned buckets of fairly wet sand to be evenly spaced around it.

- Carefully mold each bucket's worth of sand into a long leg. You will need to add more sand from the surrounding area. The legs should all be about the same width, but their lengths can vary.

- Carefully press the mouth of the plastic cup into the creature's tentacles to create suction cups.

- Add any accessories you have on hand.

Grains of Truth

We got some tips on how to make your sand sculptures a success from John Gowdy, an award-winning sand sculptor.

- Very fine sand is best for sculpting.

- Build as close as possible to the water—but not so close that a wave will erase all your hard work. Keep track of the tide; if it's coming in, move your building area farther back.

- Sand should be wet enough that you can mold it with your hands but not so wet that it just drips into a puddle. Also, if the sand is too dry, your sculpture will crumble.

- To get wet sand, you can mix dry sand and water in a bucket, use wet sand from near the water, or dig down until you hit water.

For more tips or to see some of John Gowdy's award-winning sand sculptures, check out his site at www.jgowdy.com.

1. Turn over buckets of different sizes filled with fairly wet sand to line up the bumps of the serpent's body. The smallest buckets should be at each end. They don't have to be evenly spaced, but there should be at least six inches between each one.

2. Mold each bucket into one of the serpent's sections. Drip wet sand on top to make lumpy skin.

Serpent

Sandwich

- Use a flip-flop and some seaweed for the inside of the sandwich.

Don't forget the toe cheese!

Dune Dragon

- Draw an outline of the dragon's shape in the sand with your hands or a small shovel. If you have a lot of time for building, make the dragon's body longer than your own.

- Add mounds of fairly wet, well-packed sand to your outline to create the dragon's body. Smooth out the surrounding area.
- Shape a round bump for the forehead and make the nose wide, round, and short. Use your fingers to form holes for nostrils and eye sockets.

- Fill the plastic cup with sand to make the dragon's spikes. If you make a smaller dragon, you can create the spikes with tinier, handmade mounds of sand.

- Give the legs shape by molding each bucket's worth of wet sand into a three-toed foot. Add more sand to connect each foot to the body.

- Drip very wet sand onto the spikes to make them pointy.
- Carefully press the mouth of the plastic cup all over the dragon's body to create scales and texture.
- Add seashells, pebbles, and sticks to create claws, teeth, horns, and eyes.

REBEKKAH'S NATURAL RESTAURANT

Tired of the artificial food at highway rest stops? At Rebekkah's, simply graze in our open fields and forage through our 10-acre forest, munching on all the grasses, leaves, berries, fungi, wildflowers, pinecones, acorns, and sticks you can eat. (Meals may be inadvertently seasoned with ants, beetles, and earthworms.)

Our prices are low because we have no waitstaff, dishes, menus, tables, chairs, buildings, napkins, or restrooms. (We do provide a complimentary trough of fresh rainwater, weather permitting.)

"After years of bran muffins and tofu burgers, I decided I wanted a more natural diet. So I moved to a cave and started eating roots and pebbles."

World's WORST Camps

These letters, uncovered by our crack reporters, show you which camps to avoid this summer.

U.S. DEPT. OF FAMILIAL RELATIONS

TO: Director of Camp Sibling Rivalry
FROM: U.S. Department of Familial Relations

You have ONE week to comply with the following instructions or your camp will be permanently shut down:

1. Unlock the handcuffs on all younger brothers and sisters and release them from their holding cells. Also, they are no longer anybody's "Eternal Servants."
2. During archery practice, you are to make sure that no older brothers or sisters have been placed in front of the targets.
3. The campfire song "Did Not, Did Too, Did Not, Did TOO" is banned.
4. The class HOW TO SEIZE AND MAINTAIN CONTROL OF THE PS2 AND ALL ELECTRONICS FOR ALL TIME is not to be taught anymore.

5. During soccer, campers are not allowed to use their siblings' heads as the ball.

Sincerely,

Sybil Ling

Sybil Ling,
Inspector

PRESIDENTIAL BOARD OF PHYSICAL FITNESS

To: Mr. Suet
From: Presidential Board of Physical Fitness

You are hereby ordered to shut down your day camp, Camp Putfatonya, immediately. Most camps encourage physical fitness. But your mission to fatten campers like pigs is simply all wrong! Your one and only physical activity—Vegging Out—is a joke! (Although it might be as close to vegetables as kids will get.) We were shocked to learn that you are feeding the campers triple lardburgers, lard flapjacks, grilled lard and mayo sandwiches, and extra-lard brownies. You have until 4 PM today to shut down your camp and send the campers home in time for a balanced dinner!

Concerned,

Jack Sprat

Jack Sprat, Chairman

P.S. Can you send my wife any leftover extra-lard brownies? She loves them. Thanks!

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ POLICE DEPARTMENT ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ GREAT BARRINGTON, MA

To: Ima Hamm
From: Officer Elizabeth DeFurst

We have received numerous noise complaints from persons living near your sleepaway camp, Camp Drama Queen. The sobbing, whining, complaining, shrieking, and moaning can be heard literally DOZENS OF MILES AWAY! Locals have taken to wearing earmuffs and earplugs. Some are even MOVING. It's particularly loud and annoying during the HOW DARE YOU TREAT ME LIKE THIS! classes, as well as during the I AM SOOOO NUMBER ONE AND NOBODY ELSE IS EVEN CLOSE drills. Please put a lid on it or we will have no recourse but to arrest you and all the campers. The shrill voices and the decibel level are THROUGH THE ROOF!

Sincerely,

JOHNNY DEPP

didn't sugarcoat his answers to our questions about Willy Wonka, slime, and boogers.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: Did you read Charlie and the Chocolate Factory when you were a kid?

JOHNNY DEPP: Unfortunately, I'd read the book after I had already seen the original version of the movie [Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory, from 1971]. Looking back, it would have been nicer to have experienced Roald Dahl's book before viewing someone else's interpretation.

What did you think of the first movie?

When I was a kid, Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory was an annual television event and we never missed it. I remember loving the film and particularly Gene Wilder [the actor who played Willy Wonka]. I still adore him. He's an amazing actor! I have watched it with my own kids in recent years, but I went out of my way to not see it once I knew I'd be doing the film. I didn't want to be too influenced by Gene Wilder's performance.

What inspired your Willy Wonka?

A combination of the personalities of a game show host and a children's program presenter. His persona comes out of fear and insecurity. [I was working with] the notion that if Wonka was uncomfortable with himself, he would build walls to hide behind.

Why did you recommend Freddie Highmore for the role of Charlie?

He's perfect for the part and a great actor. Plus, I developed a close friendship with him when we did Finding Neverland and was excited by the possibility of working with him again and hanging out. He is a great pal of mine!

How do you relax on a movie set?

The best way to relax on a set is to read. I just read and read and read, book after book.

SMALL ROLE: Actor Deep Roy's image was shrunk to 30 inches and duplicated so that he could play all of the Oompa-Loompas.

Did you keep any Charlie souvenirs?

I always keep souvenirs from my films. I think my kids will enjoy them someday. From Charlie, I took the chair and some costume stuff, like the cane and the teeth.

Did you mind getting slimed at the Kids' Choice Awards?

I was honored when asked to be slimed. And I was not disappointed, either—it was a blast. I'm still trying to get the green stuff out of my clothes.

Are you a nose picker?

No, I am not now, nor have I ever been, a nose picker. Nothing scares me more than a booger!

FACTORY OPENING: Wonka welcomes everyone to the factory.

Exit 50

CANDY PLANT: According to Freddie, "They made these really special plants. I ate a marshmallow one. Lots of cream was involved."

The stars of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory answered some questions about the candy-filled film.

FREDDIE HIGHMORE plays the hero of the story, Charlie Bucket. He's one of the five lucky kids who get to visit Willy Wonka's candy factory.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: What is your character, Charlie, like?

FREDDIE HIGHMORE: Charlie is very kind and thoughtful. Some of the other characters mistake his kind nature for weakness and think he's a loser. But in the end, he turns out to be a winner. He's got something that the other kids don't: He's got love.

Are you anything like Charlie?

I'm a bit like Charlie because both of us are really lucky. He had a wish to go to the factory, and when I did Finding Neverland, I had a wish that I could work with Johnny Depp again. And they both seemed like impossible things, but they've come true.

Was there any downside to playing Charlie?

One of the worst things about Charlie is that he didn't meet a sticky end. It might've been quite fun to fall into a chocolate river. [laughs] □

Did you know that Johnny was recommending you for the role?

No, I just went along like all the other kids and did an audition. My family and I were at the Grand Canyon watching the sunset when the call

IT'S A LIVING: Squirrel workers shell walnuts for candy.

CHOCOLATE FLOAT: A candy boat that runs on Oompa-Loompa power.

Catching Up With Catscratch

Catscratch, Nick's newest Nicktoon, is about the adventures of Gordon, Waffle, and Mr. Blik—three root-beer-loving, car-driving cats who inherit their owner's mansion and enormous fortune. We recently had a cat chat with Doug TenNapel, the show's creator.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: Is your house anything like the Catscratch mansion?

DOUG TENNAPEL: In my dreams, I would live in a house like that. Their mansion is almost like what would happen if a kid was allowed to raise himself and was given billions of dollars to get started.

The cats do need their butler—but who could use a butler more, you or the cats?

I could so use a butler to take care of the glorious mess that I've built up at home. But what self-respecting cartoonist would have a clean house? None.

If you could be any animal, what would you be?

I'd be a newt, Waffle's favorite animal. It's actually my favorite animal, and that's why it's Waffle's favorite animal.

Will we see any newts on the show?

Heck, yeah! Wall-to-wall newts! The theme song even has singing newts.

Instead of using a litter box, these cats use a regular toilet. Why?

It's funny, but it says a lot about who they are. I was telling the crew as we were writing, "They're not cats. They're three guys with furry ears." I think we knew early on that they'd be using the toilet.

Team Meow

Doug told us about the Catscratch characters and about the real cats behind their personalities.

The most honorable member of the feline trio, Gordon is a sensitive kitty who has a huge crush on their neighbor Human Kimberly. He will do just about anything to get her attention. "The real Gordon was a very down-to-earth cat from West Virginia," Doug said. "He had a lot of heart. And a huge gut."

What am I doing here in the middle of all these cats?

Let's Just Play: On the Move

We talked to a few stars about how they play outside and whether they follow the rules.

Zachary Williams of Romeo!

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: What are your favorite games to play outside?

ZACHARY WILLIAMS: I really, really love basketball. Sometimes I also play football and baseball.

Do you ever make up your own games or rules?

I haven't, but that's a good idea. I'll try that!

Mia Hamm, soccer player

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: When you were a kid, what did you like to play outside?

MIA HAMM: I was an active kid. I did sports in the backyard and I rode my bike. In the summertime, I was always at the pool.

Did you ever make up your own rules to games?

I think I always made up my own rules—especially if I wasn't winning! □

Go to nick.com to get ideas for new ways to play or to share your own ideas on the message boards. You can also download an application to enter your school or community-based organization in the Let's Just Play Giveaway!

Mr. Blik seems to be the leader of the pack. He likes to be in charge and wants everyone to know it. "I have a cat, Mr. Black, whose name we changed to Mr. Blik," Doug said. "In a way, he is a celebration of all of us having jerky friends. I think he'll be insulted by how I depicted him on-screen."

Waffle is a wacky cat with an affinity for newts. He's not the sharpest pencil in the box, but he is up for anything. According to Doug, "The real Waffle was empty-headed and would get lost in his own house!"

Eight-year-old Human Kimberly is the cats' friendly neighbor and the object of Gordon's affections. "Cats have a way of manipulating [most] people into always responding to them. But Human Kimberly has her own plan; she's her own girl."

A butler to the three cats, Hovis rarely finds humor in anything. "The cats really need a butler because they're helpless. You can't be a cat and get a driver's license. So you've got to get some help from your butler," Doug said. □

Catscratch airs on Friday nights at 8:30 PM. Show airs one hour earlier in the central time zone. Check nick.com for details and for the Catscratch show page.

Double Take

If having one popular video game is awesome, then combining two great games into one would be even better. Here are some combo games that we'd love to play.

by Scott Steinberg

Link and friends hoop it up in this ultimate fantasy sports game. Ganon may be a wizard with those jump shots, but you've really got game when you use your master sword to swat the ball out of opponents' hands. It's an all-star affair when Hyrule's hottest athletes—Octorok and Money Moblin—put it down for the Princess. Extras include a soundtrack of ocarina remixes and unlockable courts like Windfall Island. The end goal: turning your team into a (tri-)force to be reckoned with.

ZELDA LIVE
2005

CRASH CRASH Revolution

The bandicoot is back! But rather than roam wacky 3D worlds, Crash and Coco get their groove on to today's hottest tracks. Bounce off enemies' heads to the sounds of Usher and Kelly Clarkson. Collect power crystals by doing advanced moves, like flips, dives, and dips. The better your rumba, the more wumpa fruit you earn. You can even unlock extra characters, including Dr. Cortex and Ripper Roo. Blending jumping challenges with booty shaking—it's the wildest workout couch potatoes will ever experience.

Crash is an animal on the dance floor.

Secret agent Sam Fisher is tired of sneaking behind enemy lines alone. Enter his new partner: the blue bomber. One relies on stealth and night-vision goggles; the other runs circles around opponents. As you explore exotic countries, send the hedgehog to scout ahead. He can blend in with the local wildlife (as long as it's blue). Challenges include creeping past guards, skulking in the shadows, and bounding straight into enemies. The fate of the world is in your hands—or glove-covered paws, depending on how you look at it. □ touching is good.

SONIC CELL

Boston's Mane Man

The Boston Red Sox's Johnny Damon helped lead his team to a World Series title last year. They hadn't won a Series since 1918! Joel Pooley got the long-haired hitter to take a swing at these questions.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE:
Who taught you how to play baseball?

JOHNNY DAMON: I pretty much taught myself. I was lucky; I had an older brother and got to play with older kids. But I actually just went out there and let my athletic ability take over.

Why did you choose baseball as your sport?

I played football and baseball, and ran track. But I was so much better at baseball than all the other kids that I knew it was going to be my sport.

What's the best advice about baseball that you've gotten?

Have fun. Growing up, coaches and other people in my life always told me that. It's true. When you have fun, you're relaxed and play better.

When you're sitting on the bench waiting to play, what do you think about?

I just try to relax because the time to be focused is when I step up to the plate. I look around and see how the fans are interacting with the game, making sure they're enjoying themselves.

You're known for your patience at the plate. What makes you impatient?

The traffic in Fort Myers [Florida, where the team trains in the spring].

What has been the best moment in your career so far?

Winning the World Series. Our job was to erase the 1918 curse. We wanted to do that for the Red Sox players in the past.

What are you going to do with your World Series ring?

I'm going to wear it a couple of times. Then I might pass it out to some of my family so they can wear it every now and then.

What were you like when you were eleven?

I was a big kid, probably five feet ten and 140 pounds. When I was thirteen, I was six three and 185 pounds. I hung out with older guys.

Do people ever mix up your name with actor Matt Damon's?

All the time. I just say, "No, I'm not Matt Damon." And they say, "Yeah, you are; I'm a big Red Sox fan." And I say, "Well, you must not be that big a fan." We have fun with it.

Is it true that you like to swim with alligators?

I swim in the same lake with them in Orlando [Florida, where I live in the off-season]. Friends and I used to wrestle baby gators. Believe me, I stay away from the big ones.

Does anyone give you a hard time about having long hair?

Sometimes fans get on me to cut my hair. But you know what? They're just jealous that they don't have the flowing mane that I have. ☐

You're a cut above the rest.
